Building? Need a new address for an existing structure? Consumers Energy and Cherryland Electric both require a street address before they will give you an estimate. Benzie County Equalization is the issuing authority for street addressing within the County.

What you'll need is a site plan showing:

- the house or out building
- the driveway from the road
- the distance from the side lot lines to the structure
- the distance from the side lot lines to the driveway at the road

We also require a land use permit / zoning permit from your township or city, usually issued by the zoning administrator (except in Joyfield Township, no zoning).

Temporary Address can be issued to get an estimate from the power company. However, we reserve the right to change the address if the site layout changes.
